

LEWIS C. LANE KILLED.

Shot Dead While Under Arrest at Quittman.

A Savannah Traveling Man Commits Assault Upon a Young Lady and is Slain on His Way to Jail by His Victim's Father.

From the Savannah, Ga., News.

Lewis C. Lane, a well known traveling man of this city, was shot and killed near Quittman last night.

Lane was arrested at Quittman Sunday night on a charge of assaulting with intent to rape a young lady of that place. He was locked up, but the sheriff, fearing an attempt would be made to lynch him, started to take him to Thomaston for safe keeping.

KILLED BY THE GIRL'S FATHER.

He had gone about five miles out of town when they were overtaken by the young lady's father. A fight ensued, and Lane was shot and killed.

Lane's former home was Quittman, and his mother lives there now. The prominence of the parties and the character of the crime have caused intense excitement in Quittman, where Lane was well known.

THE VICTIM'S ASSAULT.

A Waycross special gives the following: Lewis C. Lane committed an assault upon Miss Yerington at Quittman. While being transferred to Thomaston jail about 7:30 o'clock to prevent being lynched, he was overtaken and shot by the girl's father.

Lane was well known in Savannah. He was a member of Post D, of the Travelers' Protective association, and was popular among traveling men and well liked by everybody who knew him. He has lived in Savannah for four years and boarded while here at No. 126 State street. He left Savannah two weeks ago to go out on the road. Saturday night he went to Quittman to spend Sunday at his old home. He was about twenty years old and unmarried. His friends here were surprised at the report of his crime and his tragic death.

UP IN THE MOUNTAINS.

Serious Accident to Captain J. B. Tanner—General Gospel of the Day.

ELLIJAY, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Captain J. B. Tanner, of Atlanta, happened to a serious accident at the depot in this place last Friday evening. While he was supervising the loading of some very heavy millstones on wagons, to be hauled to his millsite about eight miles from Ellijay, he was struck by a 200-pound stone falling over on Mr. Tanner, snapping his leg just above the ankle. Drs. Tanner and Johnson were summoned, and immediately set and fractured limb. He was comfortably quartered at the Mountain View Hotel in this place, and his brother, Mr. W. J. Tanner, of Atlanta, was telegraphed. Saturday's first train brought him and his wife to the bedside of his wounded brother. Every attention possible has been given the sufferer, and one citizen has responded nobly in his efforts to alleviate his pain. He is doing finely at this hour, and so soon as nature grants his desire he will be about. Captain Tanner has invested considerable money in a mill plant and farm in the state, and the stones were on their way to the site. He is an energetic and capable man, and all regret this serious interruption of his business. He is erecting an extensive plant on his country location. A flouring, grist, saw, and mill plant, and a general store, are erected, the work on which this accident will temporarily suspend.

A very largely attended Sunday-school celebration was held at Mountain View, nine miles from Ellijay, last Friday. Speechmaking, songs, a good dinner, apples and cider were the principal elements of the day's entertainment. There was one of the largest concourses of people in attendance ever witnessed at a Sunday school demonstration in this county. A general good time was had, and a boost for the Sunday school cause gained by this celebration.

Mr. Henry T. Carroll, of this city, in this county at death's door at this writing. He is prostrated with remittent fever and white swelling. He is a prominent citizen of this county, having been planning and county commissioner only two weeks ago. His physicians have almost abandoned hope, and death is expected any day.

The Masonic temple here is rapidly going up, and the many active members of that fraternal order are dated at the prospects of soon entering the new building. The hall was neatly finished, painted, carpeted and seated with chairs, and will be the handsomest Masonic hall north of Marietta on this railroad.

A number of houses, both dwellings and business establishments, are being overhauled and repainted, and our little town is assuming a tidy air.

Politics are growing warmer daily, and the wire-pullers promise livelier times ahead. The district conference of the Methodist church south, held at this place, closed at Young Harris institute, in Towns county, on the fifth Sunday in July. Presiding Elder A. C. Thomas will be there to preside.

A CAMPAIGN TITLE.

Something Unique Gotten Up by a Gainesville Firm.

GAINEVILLE, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Messrs. Palmer & Smith, merchants of this city, are making a run on a "campaign title" in the crown of which is an excellent picture of Cleveland—behind which appears the half face of the "old Roman," who has made the red landiana famous throughout the civilized world.

The hat is a regular wool hat, light color and is immensely popular with democrats, old and young. They are selling them like hot cakes, and each purchaser makes a rush for the store looking as if he thought the last one had been sold, and that he would have to wait patiently for another lot to arrive.

THE Fall Term of Upson Court.

THOMASTON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—The fall term of Upson superior court convened this morning. Solicitor-General Wannack was on hand and swore in the jurors in his usual happy style. Judge James S. Benton, who is very popular with our people as a judicial officer, then charged the grand jury in a plain, able, forcible manner, that could not be misunderstood. The grand jury is composed of some of the best citizens of the county, and the law-breakers will find that they will receive the proper attention at their hands. It is thought that court will continue two weeks.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF HIS IDENTITY.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—A telegram has been received by Detective Weatherhorn, stating that an officer had started from Columbia, S. C., this morning for this city, to take charge of George North, the escaped convict arrested yesterday morning. The negro acknowledges that he is the man, and will return without any trouble, as he is now desirous of paying off his time at the mines as quickly as possible. Detective Weatherhorn will receive the reward of $25 offered by the state for his arrest.

STRANGE DEATHS IN WORTH.

ALBANY, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—A serious type of fever is raging in Worth county, south of Sumner, three young men, Addie Whitson, Phillip Yaw and Charles H. Yaw, having died from it. They were bright boys, students at the Sumner academy, and had just reached home from the summer vacation when they fell victims to the dreadful disease.

GUILTY OF SELLING LIQUOR.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—James A. Sawyer pleaded guilty in the superior court today to selling liquor on Sunday. Sawyer was sentenced to pay $50 fine and costs and to sign an affidavit that he would not knowingly sell liquor on Sunday. If he did not sign the affidavit he was to go to jail for fifteen days. He took the pledge.

THE first programme of the season at Chautauqua today. The grounds are beautiful, the flowers are in bloom, the walks are sprinkled so that there is no dust. There will be three concerts in which the Mexican band will contend with the Goshen band, dialect reading by Betsy Hamilton. Short speeches by Mr. Grady, Mr. Kiser, Dr. Harper, and others. Opening of Summer college. An illustrated lecture by Mr. James A. Green, of Cincinnati, on "Long-fellow at Home," followed by a splendid concert by both bands.

POLITICS IN UPSON.

The Length of the Last Legislature Discussed.

THOMASTON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Our people are just beginning to take policy Court being in session gives a fine opportunity for a general expression of the people on the issues that are, and will control the action of the democratic party in the election of members of the next general assembly.

The long and expensive session of the last legislature is still fresh in the minds of the people. How that "august" body remained in session over four months, at a cost to the taxpayers of over two hundred thousand dollars. The people are now in a position to judge the public treasure, when the importance of the work is estimated. As one remedy, and one only, to cure this evil, and that is for the people in their county conventions to pledge their nominees to vote against these summer sessions. This seems to be the principal issue that will control the democratic party in this section of the state in selecting members of the legislature. No man should be elected to the general assembly this fall who can afford to spare four months of the business season away from his private interests.

Measures and not men have been principally discussed in this county. I have heard but one gentleman suggested as a candidate for representative from Upson county, and that was the name of the Rev. W. C. Cleveland, who is able, conservative and fully in line with the democratic party on all the important issues involved, both in state and national politics. He has been elected to the district in the congressional convention of this district instructed to vote for the nomination of Hon. James H. Blount, Harris county, according to the relation rule adopted in the 23rd senatorial district, will furnish the senatorial candidate. Our people are solid for Gordon for governor and Coggins for United States senate.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

The Fourth District Farmers in Convention.

NEWNAS, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—On Friday, alliance delegates from the counties of Carroll, Campbell, Meriwether, Heard, Fayette and Cordeiro met at the court house for the purpose of electing delegates to the annual meeting of the alliance in the 23rd senatorial district, which will be held in the fall. The best plan of work in order to raise the necessary funds with which to raise a stock company with chartered capital from one hundred to one thousand dollars, with which to erect, equip and manage a large guano factory and cotton seed oil mill for this alliance district, composed of the counties named. They have not determined on the location yet, but the sentiment demonstrated in the meeting was in favor of the most fertile point in possessing superior railway facilities. It was agreed in the convention that they apply for a charter covering the requirements of the alliance, and that they raise the necessary funds by private subscriptions among the alliance men in the district referred to. They expect to be able to produce a superior grade of fertilizers at much reduced prices to their orders, and at the same time utilize their cottonseed in a manner whereby they will get the greatest benefits.

PLEADS GUILTY TO THE CHARGE.

But Claims that He Did Not Go to Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—James Maddox, the negro who killed James Golden, April 8, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the superior court today. Maddox and Golden had a quarrel about a woman, and Maddox ran Golden out of the house in which they were fighting. Maddox followed and threatened to kill Golden, and the latter fled. Maddox followed him to the city, and nothing was heard of him for a month or more, when he was arrested. He admitted the murder, and came back willingly. He said that he did not intend to kill Golden. Maddox was represented by James Atkins, P. J. O'Connor and C. S. Palmer. Solicitor-General Wannack accepted the plea. The defense asked that the sentence be postponed until an exculpatory affidavit could be prepared and filed.

BUILDING UP IN CARROLLTON.

CARROLLTON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Work is progressing finely on the Bradley brick block. When completed it will be an ornamental structure, and a monument to the energy of the indomitable Tom Bradley. Bruce & Morgan, of Atlanta, are the architects.

B. F. Bitts, editor and proprietor of the Carroll County Times, has bought out Captain James Hill, of the Commercial hotel, and now plans to build a new hotel on the site. The new hotel will be a two-story building, with a brick and stone front, and will be the handsomest hotel in the county. The brick are to be used in building a block on the east side of the square.

TO GO TO GAINESVILLE.

JEFFERSON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—The Martin institute has lost one of its most active members of the faculty in the person of Mrs. Ellen Meade Clarke, of the musical department, who has been called to Gainesville, Ga., to accept one with Professor Van Hoes, of the college at Gainesville, Ga. Mrs. Clarke, on account of faithful service, has won the esteem of the whole people, and her departure from Gainesville will be sorely missed by our people, and Gainesville has reason to congratulate herself on securing such a valuable teacher.

AN Alligator Hauled Up.

ALBANY, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—A charming private barbeque was given at Collier's pond, about two miles above Albany today, by Captain Richard Hobbs and Sheriff Edwinton. The pond is a beautiful one, and the barbeque was a success. A live alligator was hauled up among the fish. A rope was tied around its neck, and he was hauled to the shore, where he made a dash at every passerby. He struggled himself by his violent struggles, while being hauled into town on the return.

HENRY BRIDSON KILLED.

BRIDSON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Henry Bridson, a negro boy, was accidentally shot and killed by Hugo Hafner, the youngest son of A. Hafner, about 12 years of age, this evening. This negro boy had been in the yard of A. Hafner's store, playing, when Hugo playfully picked up a pistol and said: "Look out, I am going to shoot." The pistol fired, the ball entering at the top of the head, killing him instantly. The pistol was an old weapon, and Hugo did not think it was loaded. The affair is deeply regretted.

THE First District Republicans.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—The republican committee for this congressional district will be called together within the next ten days by Chairman Pleasants. It is composed of two delegates from each of the ten districts at large. The question of a congressional candidate will then be thoroughly discussed, although it goes without saying that the leaders are of the same opinion, and that Colonel Devereaux, who says: "It would take a remarkably strong man to defeat Colonel Lane."

DEATH OF MR. JAKE BLASCOER.

CORONA, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—A private telegram from New York City announced the death of Mr. Jake Blascoer, a well-known Columbus, Ga. Blascoer left this city for a pleasure trip to New York about ten days ago. His sudden death was a great surprise to his relatives and friends here.

TODAY will be the biggest day of the week at Chautauqua. Three concerts by two bands, dialect reading, opening of Summer college, speeches by Dr. Harper, of Yale, and others, and illustrated lectures tonight by Mr. James A. Green, of Cincinnati, on "Long-fellow at Home." Do not miss today's programme.

A Dallas, Texas, Winner of $10,000.

Mr. Frank Bergen was found at his saloon, corner of Akard and Marilla streets, and said this city for a pleasure trip to New York about ten days ago. His sudden death was a great surprise to his relatives and friends here.

NEWS SANDWICHES.

Houston County's Exhibit at the State Fair.

Death of Judge Malthe—The Betterments Question—A Revolutionary Relief—Other News.

Houston county proposes to furnish the most elaborate exhibit of resources at the state fair. The county has several of the most enterprising farmers' clubs in the state. The rivalry between these clubs for the past several years has developed a high degree of progress, so that now it will take but little effort to get up an exhibit which will be worthy, not only of the county, but of the state. The other counties will have to look sharp, if they hope to take the prize from Houston.

Bainbridge will ship over a thousand crates of pears this year, and her groves are just coming into bearing.

The Spartan Ishmael is of the opinion that the man "who believes the present presidential campaign is going to be a quiet, good-tempered one, will learn a good many things before November."

Mr. Ashbury F. Sears, who was killed near Waverly Hall on the Georgia Midland July 4th, was well known to many of the citizens. Nearly forty years ago he hauled wood from Hamilton to Woodbury, when Mr. Johnson, of Hamilton, ran a stage to Woodbury. Mr. Sears was quite deaf then, having become deaf of hearing while serving as a soldier in the Mexican war. He was walking on the track, and being deaf did not discover the approaching train. He was killed instantly.

Colonel J. T. Jordan will be presented by the democrats of the eighth district for presidential elector.

Judge Malthe, of Austin, Texas, is dead. Richard Malthe was raised in Lawrenceville, and was the son of the late William Malthe. On arriving at maturity he read law and was admitted to practice, and settled in southern Georgia, where he remained until the war. He was one of the first to volunteer in the confederate army, and made a reputation as a gallant soldier. He was colonel of one of the Georgia regiments during the latter years of the war. After the war he returned to his home in Texas and settled at McKinney, where he rose rapidly in his profession and was elected judge of the superior court. This position he held until he was forced to resign on account of some trouble of throat and he declined reelection. He was elected judge of the court of appeals in that state and was in attendance upon the session of the court at Austin when he was stricken down by the disease which proved fatal.

The Madison Madisonian says: "He who is unwilling to accept the liberal proposition of Senator Brown, in regard to the question of betterments, is certainly so warped with prejudice that it would disqualify him from serving as a trial juror in any case, where the right of a man to life, liberty and property is at stake. How much more he is disqualified for legislating upon the interest of a great people. Senator Brown suggests that each side select a lawyer and a competent referee, and these four arbitrators select an umpire and let the entire question be submitted to them for final arbitration. There was ever a more liberal suggestion made in this state, and we have no objection to it. We say emphatically, yes. And he who is unwilling to accept it, can never receive our support as a representative in the state legislature, no matter if he received a liberal nomination from the democratic party. We have voted for democrats to represent us, to whom we did not speak, but we never will vote for a man so completely prejudiced as to refuse to accept the liberal proposition, and to insist upon the interest of the most humble citizen. If this be reason to the party, make the most of it."

The Hinesville Gazette says: "Peaches are scarce but we had the pleasure of examining the inside of a peach last Thursday at the agricultural dinner of the Gum Branch club."

The Albany News, after noting several instances of appreciation on the part of its patrons, says: "These facts encourage the editors to labor earnestly to make the paper useful. We have devoted all the energy and means at our command to the task, and we hope to be able to do so in the future. The future of this section is unbounded, and though the good time coming here has long been expected, we have an unfaltering trust in the advantage of southwest Georgia, and that they will gain in time recognition. We feel today as if the dawn of a brighter day of prosperity was breaking upon us. There has never been more abundant signs of life and vigor in the old land, and promises of better times are read in the growing crops, in the active preparations for a busy business, and in the important enterprises to which our people have given their hands and hearts. Let us take heart and work to the accomplishment of a more splendid prosperity than has ever existed in southwest Georgia."

The free trade policy has made such progress that Mr. B. F. Mosley advertises that, hereby, on and after this date, give my consent and hereby make and constitute my wife, Martha J. Mosley, a free trader."

The Register says it is now a settled conclusion that Franklin county is to have a fair at Gainesville in the latter part of next October, and that a county exhibit will be made in Athens in November. In this determination Franklin sets an example well worthy of emulation by the county of Hart.

Caterpillars have made their appearance in Mitchell county.

The Quittman Herald says that during "the revolutionary war" Squire T. L. Jones's grandfather lived near Norfolk, Va. The British raided his place, captured his negroes and carried them away. The family fled to the mountains of the British, but before doing so had to stave and other valuable. Squire Jones showed us one of the teaspoons Tuesday that was buried at the time. It is worn very much, the handle being almost round. General Lafayette captured the negroes the next day after the British had taken them away. He established his headquarters at Mr. Jones's residence and requested that gentleman to go and identify his negroes, among hundreds of others that had just been recaptured from the decks. He did so, and brought them back home. Squire Jones's middle name is Lafayette, being named for the gallant French patriot who played so important a part in wresting our independence from John Bull.

Mr. John F. Darratt, of Quittman, has shipped five carloads of melons from six acres. He has picked the proceeds of four acres, which amounted to $70. The fifth car went forward last week. It contained 1,100 fine melons, and will command a good price. Mr. Darratt plants on the intensive plan.

The Canilla Clarion says: "This is a happy week at our editor's country home. Mrs. Dr. F. Hendon, of Alabama, his only sister, and Mrs. W. C. Harris, of Albany, are visiting him. Our editor was left motherless early in life, and this sister was the kindest of mothers to him. He has not seen her for years, and she had never seen his family. His daughter, Mrs. W. C. Harris, of Albany, is with him, and Mrs. W. C. Harris, of Albany, will be under the paternal roof this evening. The family reunion fills his heart with thanksgiving."

THE WATERMELON SHIPPING SEASON.

The watermelon shipping season is practically over for south Georgia. The Ocean Steamship company, which carries the bulk of the Georgia melon crop north, will take about the last of the fruit this week. The season began two weeks earlier than usual this year, but the Ocean Steamship authorities say that they have handled more melons than they did last year, in spite of the fact that the demand for the fruit was not so large as it has been in former years. The crop is increasing every year, and commission men say that it has already got so large that efforts must be made to find a better market in order to keep the supply from exceeding the demand. The Ocean Steamship people say that this is the case with vegetables as well as fruit. The orange country has been practically settled. There is always a market for the orange crop, but it is not so with the vegetable crop. Up to June 30 the Ocean Steamship company had carried to New York 307,000 crates and 90,000 barrels of vegetables, against 175,000 crates and 35,000 barrels up to the same time last year. The Philadelphia and Boston shipments were not so large, but they show a corresponding increase. The heavy shipments to New York glutted the market, and as a result the shippers lost heavily. General Manager Surrell was asked about the matter. While the transportation companies are, of course, glad to handle the freight, he said that it has become a serious question for the truck growers to consider, whether they will keep on shipping to an overstocked market at low prices and consequently small profits, and frequently at a loss, or whether they will find a new market. The west is an untapped market for southern vegetables, but the transportation companies believe that it can be made a great market, and that vegetables can be shipped west with almost as large a profit as they can north, and certainly with as much profit as they can be sent to an overstocked and glutted market, which has been the case this year.

THE PEABODY INSTITUTE.

THE LECTURES GROWING DEEPER IN INTEREST.

SALT SPRINGS, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Miss Bowen gave the first lecture of the morning at the Peabody institute.

Professor Parker continued his lecture on Geometry. The first book of geometry should be taught orally and by notes.

Professor Woodall gave a lecture on grammar, developing in a plain, philosophical way, the different parts of speech in language.

Professor H. H. Smith gave a spirited talk on Latin. He wrote several quotations from Horace on the blackboard, then in a felicitous manner brought out the translation, syntax and prosody of the same.

Professor Graham treated percentage in an interesting way, considering all examples in it as forms of common fractions.

Dr. Payne's lecture was on "Old and New Methods." The old was based entirely on authority, the so-called new on observation.

He lectured again in the evening, discussing motives. He advocated a combination of the old and the new, the push and the pull.

More colored teachers are in today, and they will be given separate lectures from now on. Ample arrangements were made by Commissioner Hoke for them. He expressed his regret on Saturday, in open session, that the colored teachers were not made by the state.

SUMMER RESORTS.

But things have changed since Mr. Dewey left, and are changing more every day. What appeared to be a strong nomination by the republicans has turned out to be an exceedingly weak one; and the vulnerable points of the republican leader have been assailed to such an extent that even

The News and Advertiser is of the opinion—and we heartily agree with it—that a remedy for all the troubles set forth is to be found in the concerted action of the melon

In a few cases of "Abdominal Typus," but they are fairly recovered. There have been several cases of gastritis—one or two fatal. Among the predisposing causes (all personal) of this disease, is, generally, that of introducing cold drinks into the stomach, when it is heated. The hot term through which we in Abbeville, and in other cities of the south, have been passing, is a great temptation to the young people to indulge in ice drinks after heating walks under the sun; and a large majority of the cases of illness can be readily traced to this thoughtless imprudence of the young people. It must be remembered, however, that the thy change has occurred in General Sheridan's condition during the last twenty-four hours. He had a quiet and restful night and this day has been comfortably passed. He has relished his food and has taken a sufficient amount. His pulse continues to be on a good tension and his cough is seldom annoying.

The S. A. E. fraternity is an important adjunct of the university. It has no hall of its own and is desirous of getting one. The chapter has been raising a fund for this purpose. About $2,000 has been guaranteed, but $4,000 more is needed.

While in Athens a few days ago Captain Jackson offered to pay all the expenses of the hall. He told the officers to go ahead with the work, to fit up the hall in handsome style and to send the bill to him.

A Tracing on a Railroad

Among the trifles overlooked by the son, former president of the large bank, etc., was the railroad map. The map of itself does not tell where there are some pencil scribbles upon it that may be a clue to whereabouts, or to the route of the leaving Atlanta.

The map is printed upon a Nashville folder, and bears a date been closely examined by the son. It was found upon Mr. Nelson's desk. The slight because, known, the the are supposed to be his.

The slight traces of a pencil in Atlanta and follows the line to and Atlantic to Chattanooga. The line diverges to a large railroad connecting point. From here the line diminish, but can be followed to a magnifying glass can be seen.

If the tracing on this map is as giving any indication of the leaving Atlanta.

The matter is given for worth to parties who are Nelson, and would like to see again.
